8.6.1 The techniques for the Fund management only comprise Repo Deal pursuant to Sections 31 to 33 of the Regulation and financial derivatives pursuant to Sections 12 a 13 of the Regulation.

8.6.2 The techniques pursuant to par. 8.6.1 of the Prospectus may only be applied, if

- a) they are related to investment securities and money market instruments;
- b) they are used solely for the purpose of effective management of the Fund and in order to:
 - 1. mitigate the risk associated with investing on the account of the Fund;
 - 2. reduce the costs associated with investing on the account of the Fund; or
 - 3. acquire additional capital or achieve additional yields, if the risk taken complies with the risk profile of the Fund;
- c) the application of these techniques does not mean circumventing the rules laid down in the Regulation and determined by the Prospectus or the investment strategy of the Fund; and
- d) any debts of the Fund resulting from the application of these techniques shall always be fully covered from the Fund assets.

8.6.3 Repo Deals making use of the Fund assets may be executed only with permissible counterparties subjected to supervision from the supervising authority of the State of its registered office, and only if the relevant liability can be terminated without any term of notice or with a term of notice less than seven days. Arranging of Repo Deals shall be governed by Sections 30 through 33 of the Regulation.

8.6.4 The Fund Manager of the Fund shall mitigate risks related to the application of financial derivatives in the following manner:

- a) if a financial derivative is to be settled by the Fund by supplying underlying asset, the Fund Manager shall hold the underlying asset concerned as at the moment of the execution of the contract and throughout the term of the contract relating to such derivative in the Fund assets; in respect of currency derivatives characterised as hedging derivatives according to the international accounting standards regulated by the law of the European Union, it is sufficient to hold a highly liquid asset;
- b) if a financial derivative is to be settled by the Fund by supplying pecuniary funds, the Fund Manager shall hold the pecuniary funds concerned or highly liquid assets in the value corresponding to the settlement price of the financial derivative or to highly liquid assets in values corresponding to the settlement price of the relevant financial derivative;

- c) it shall not apply, with the exception of the cases pursuant to par. 8.6.5 of the Prospectus, any underlying assets, pecuniary funds or highly liquid assets serving to cover one of such financial derivative in order to cover further such financial derivative; at the same time, it shall not apply to cover such financial derivative any asset values and pecuniary funds, which are involved in any Repo Deals;
- d) it shall ensure that the underlying asset of such financial derivative should comply with the investment strategy and the risk profile of the Fund; and
- e) the Fund Manager shall obtain consent of other contracting parties to the settlement of the financial derivative and the commodity derivative prior to their maturity, provided that the settlement will match the fair value of the financial derivative and the commodity derivative.

8.6.5 The Fund Manager of the Fund shall hold any pecuniary funds of this Fund in order to mitigate the risk posed by the use of the financial derivatives only up to the amount of the difference of their settlement prices if it concerns the case pursuant to par. 8.6.4(b) of the Prospectus and if another financial derivative has been negotiated

- a) with another contracting party in order to close an open position from the financial derivative, and these financial derivatives are settled on the same day; or
- b) with the same contracting party in order to close an open position from the financial derivative, and the settlement date of these financial derivatives does differ by more than seven days.

8.6.6 The determination of the total Fund exposure is performed at least once a day, using a standard liability method, the value at risk (VaR) method, or any other advanced risk measurement method pursuant to Sections 36 to 43 of the Regulation. The Fund Manager of the Fund shall ensure that the chosen method of determination of the total exposure is appropriate with respect to the applied investment strategy of the Fund, the types and complexity of the derivatives used, and the share of derivatives in the Fund assets. The following aspects shall be taken into account when determining the total exposure of the Fund:

- a) the current value of the underlying assets of the derivatives;
- b) the counterparty risk with respect to the party with which the derivatives have been negotiated;
- c) the expected future movements on the market;
- d) the term after which the positions of the fund related to the derivatives can be closed; and
- e) management techniques pursuant to par. 8.6.1 and 8.6.2, 8.6.1 and 8.6.2 of the Prospectus, if they make use of the leverage effect or if they lead to increased exposure of the Fund to market risk.

8.6.7 If the determination of the total exposure of the Fund is performed using a standard liability method, the exposure relating to financial derivatives shall not at any moment exceed 100 percent of the value of the capital of the Fund; if the limit is exceeded due to changes of fair values, the position of the Fund with respect to financial derivatives shall be modified without undue delay, so that the exposure with respect to financial derivatives and commodity derivatives complied with the limit.

8.6.8 If the determination of the total exposure of the Fund is performed based on the model of absolute risk value, the value at risk must not exceed 20 percent of the value of the assets of the Fund.

8.6.9 If the determination of the total exposure of the Fund is performed based on the model of relative risk value, the value at risk must not exceed double the risk value of the reference portfolio.

8.7 Characteristics of a typical investor

The Fund is intended for conservative investors with a medium investment horizon, who prefer relatively low risk-ratios and corresponding levels and stability of yields. The Fund is also suitable for investors not aware of the principles and instruments applied in capital markets and inexperienced in trading investment instruments. A typical investor should be aware of the risks associated with investments in bonds, money market instruments and other instruments bearing bond-related risks (including but not limited to credit risk, interest risk, and concentration risk) and should be prepared to accept the risk of possible loss resulting from investments. The Fund is suitable for investors planning to invest their pecuniary funds for at least five years.

9 INFORMATION ABOUT RISKS

9.1 The risk profile of the Fund

- 9.1.1 Prices of the Securities on capital markets can fluctuate up and down and their development cannot be predicted. Yields achieved in the past are not a guarantee for achievement of the same yields in the future. The Investment Company tries to minimize the risks associated with the investment in Securities and to increase the probability of achieving yields. A success of the investment or return on the amount invested, however, is not guaranteed.
- 9.1.2 The current value of the Units (and thus the value of the investment) can increase or decrease relative to the purchase price.
- 9.1.3 The risk profile of the Fund based on the risk-yield ratio is represented primarily by the so-called Synthetic Risk and Reward Indicator - SRRI):

← Potentially lower yield		Potentially higher yield →
← Lower risk		Higher risk →
1	2	3	4	5	6	7

The Synthetic Indicator takes into account fluctuations of the value of the Units and it shows the potential yield of investments in relation to the degree of risk inherent in the Fund. The higher the number, the higher the potential yield but the less foreseeable the yield, and investors could therefore suffer a loss. However, even the lowest number does not mean that an investment is entirely free of any risk; it rather indicates that – in comparison to higher numbers – the investment offers a lower but more foreseeable yield.

In view of the date of the establishment of the Fund, the actual historical values of the Units cannot be used, and the calculation of the Synthetic Indicator is based on modelled trends in the value of the Units derived from the expected placement of the assets in Government and corporate bonds denominated in CZK with “investment” Rating and the Weighted Average Maturity of five years.

As of the issuance date of the Prospectus, the Fund was rated in Risk Group 3. This figure was determined based on historical information, which is not always a reliable guide when it comes to the future risk profile of the Fund. Such Fund rating in respect of its risk category does not have to be permanent and the Fund can be later re-categorized. The Synthetic Indicator is re-evaluated on regular basis and the current information on its amount is published in a manner allowing for remote access on the Internet address: www.rfis.cz; furthermore, it is available in Key Investor Information.

9.2 Types of risks

- 9.2.1 Credit risk – A risk that the issuer or the counterparty is unable to fulfil its financial obligations; most often the bond issuer does not fulfil its obligation to pay the agreed interest or principal. In spite of the most careful selection of the Securities it cannot be ruled out that a loss will occur due to such failure of the issuers of Securities to fulfil their obligations.
- 9.2.2 Interest-rate risk – It comprises risk of change of the interest rates. It is a special part of the market risk. Changes of market interest rates can result, among other things, from a change of the economic situation and the responding policy of the relevant central bank. If the market interest rates grow the prices of Securities with fixed interest rate usually decrease, and vice-versa. Price fluctuations caused by the changes of market interest rates are different, depending on the time to maturity of the fixed-interest Security. Fixed-interest Securities with shorter time to maturity thus have lower interest rate risk than the same Securities with longer time to maturity. However, fixed-interest Securities with shorter time to maturity typically have lower yields than fixed-interest Securities with longer time to maturity.

- 9.2.3 Currency risk – It is also part of the market risk. It is related to fluctuations of exchange rates of the currencies in which investments of the Fund are denominated, relative to the exchange rate of the Czech crown (CZK) in which the value of the assets of the Fund is kept. If the exchange rate of currency in which the investment is denominated relative to the exchange rate of CZK declines the value of the assets in the Fund goes down although the exchange rates of the relevant Securities in the capital markets are stable, and vice-versa.
- 9.2.4 Concentration risk – The risk comprises the possibility of a failure of the investment if the invested funds are concentrated into a single investment instrument or a type of investment instrument or, as the case may be, due to uneven distribution of the invested funds among the different issuers or types of issuers. The probability of a failure of investments focusing on a certain type of investment instrument/issuer is affected by the joint risk factor, for example, conducting business in the same industry or the same geographic region, carrying out the same activity or trading in the same commodity. The Fund investments may be negatively affected by the fact that investment securities or money market instruments issued or guaranteed by the Czech Republic may comprise up to 100 percent of the value of the assets of the Fund.
- 9.2.5 Risk of insufficient liquidity – The Investment Company purchases for the Fund primarily Securities that are properly traded on domestic and foreign regulated markets or on organised markets which are generally recognised, are accessible to the public and function correctly, or on so-called OTC markets. In addition, it purchases Securities from new issues whose issuance terms include an obligation to file an application for registration for official listing in a stock exchange or an organised market, if the registration is achieved not later than one year after the issue of the Securities. In the case of certain individual Securities, which are only traded to a limited extent or in certain segments of the stock exchange, it may be difficult to sell the Securities at the required point of time or, as the case may be, to achieve a reasonable price at the required time, which could, in extreme cases, result in the Fund not being able to fulfil its obligations under requests for redemption of the Units and in suspension of the issuance and redemption of the Units pursuant to par. 13.3.4 of the Prospectus.
- 9.2.6 Settlement risk – A risk that the settlement of a transaction will not be executed as originally expected due to the fact that the counterparty fails to pay or to supply the investment instruments within the set term. This risk consists primarily of potential loss of investment opportunity. Since transactions of the Fund, with the exception of transactions whose nature rules it out (e.g., primary subscription for Securities) and with the exception of foreign exchange (FX) operations, are performed essentially against cash payments (delivery versus payment), the risk of direct loss is low.
- 9.2.7 Market risk – A risk associated with an unfavourable development of the price or value of the individual asset values owned by the Fund including the value of hedging operations and assets in general (mainly prices of Securities, exchange rates or interest rates). This unfavourable development may be related to the macroeconomic situation, financial situation of the different issuers or events which have indirect impact on the market development, e.g., political situation.
- 9.2.8 Operational risk – It consists of a loss due to the lack or failure of internal processes or human factor or due to external events and the risk of loss of property entrusted into custody or other administration, which may be caused in particular by insolvency, negligence or wilful act of the party which has the Fund's assets or Securities issued by the Fund in custody or other administration.
- 9.2.9 Emerging markets risk – A sum of risks which typically do not occur in the most developed markets. The nature of these risk is:
- a) political, i.e., instability and volatility of the political situation and environment;
 - b) economic, i.e., high rate of inflation, risks associated with investments in recently privatised companies and with devaluation of the currency, insufficiently developed financial markets;
 - c) legal, i.e., legal uncertainty and generally difficult recognition and/or enforceability of rights;
 - d) fiscal/tax, i.e., the tax burden may be very heavy and there is no guarantee of a uniform and coherent interpretation of legal texts. Local authorities often have discretionary powers to impose new taxes, sometimes with retroactive effects;

- e) risk of loss caused by the lack of suitable systems for transfer, valuation, payment, clearance, process of registration of Securities, custody of Securities and facilitation of operations.

These risks may result in increased volatility of prices of investment instruments.

- 9.2.10 Financial derivatives risk – The risk is inherent both in the systemic risk of the instrument itself (the underlying asset risk) and in the risk of failure of the counterparty. In view of the fact that financial derivatives will be applied within the Fund investment strategy especially as hedging instruments (currency and interest rate risk management), the most dangerous financial derivative risks are in that the performance of the underlying assets (interest rates, exchange rates, etc.) will be opposite to that expected and the Fund will miss the opportunity to generate sufficient yields.
- 9.2.11 Repo Deals risk – There are two basic risks inherent in Repo Deals; the counterparty risk and the underlying asset risk, i.e., the risk inherent in the investment instrument itself. In the event of Repo, it is mainly the counterparty risk caused, for example, by an increase in the exchange rate of the hedging investment instrument, held on its account by the counterparty, which may give rise to an intent not to return the investment instrument. In the event of Reverse Repo, the risk derives from the underlying asset, e.g., from the fact that a receivable held by the Fund needs not be repaid and the hedging investment instrument would be included in its assets instead. In such cases, the Fund would face the risks associated with the holding of such investment instruments, in particular, the market risk.
- 9.2.12 Risk of premature dissolution, and/or deletion of the Fund – Due to legislatively defined reasons, e.g., if the Fund does not have a depository for more than three months or if the amount of the Fund asset value does not reach at least EUR 1,250,000 within six months of the date of incorporation, or if the CNB withdraws from the Investment Company its licence to act as an investment company, due to a decision of a court, or for reasons pursuant to par. 15.3 of the Prospectus; the Fund may be dissolved, and/or deleted from the list maintained by the CNB. As a result, it is not guaranteed that a Unit-holder would remain a Unit-holder of the Fund for the whole term of its investment horizon, which may have negative impact on the expected return on the investment.

9.3 Risk management

The Investment Company is responsible for risk management and it takes all necessary precautions in order to be able to check and measure at any time the risks associated with the different positions in the portfolio as well as the overall portfolio risk.

10 INFORMATION ABOUT HISTORICAL PERFORMANCE

The determination of historical performance is based on the net asset value of such collective investment fund and on the assumption that all yields of the collective investment fund will have been re-invested. In view of the date of the establishment of the Fund, no sufficient data are available currently that could provide investors with a useful picture of the current performance of the Fund. Therefore, the below chart does not contain any information on the historical performance of the Fund. If the historical performance of the individual Classes of the Fund should differ, each Class of the Fund will have a separate chart shown below.

11 PRINCIPLES FOR THE MANAGEMENT OF THE FUND AND PAYMENT OF PROFIT OR YIELD SHARES

- 11.1.1 The Fund is managed by the Investment Company with professional care. The Investment Company exercises the ownership rights to the Fund assets in its own name and on the account of the Unit-holders.
- 11.1.2 In the management of the Fund assets, the Investment Company follows the rules of prudent practices, the rules applicable to management of the Fund assets, and the rules of conduct comprising, among other things, giving priority to the interests of the Unit-holders over own interests and interests of third parties.
- 11.1.3 The financial year of the Fund equals the calendar year, starting on 1 January and ending on 31 December of each calendar year. The first financial year of the Fund starts on the date of its registration in the relevant list maintained by the CNB.
- 11.1.4 Audited financial statements of the Fund as well as decisions on the distribution of profit or other proceeds from the Fund assets or, as the case may be, on the coverage of losses, shall be approved by the Board of Directors of the Investment Company.
- 11.1.5 Information about titles to payment of a profit share or any other yields from the Fund assets or about reinvesting such funds relating to the individual types of Units – Classes, is carried in Art. 12 of the Prospectus.
- 11.1.6 The Investment Company pays out dividends under the conditions as stipulated in the Prospectus through the entity keeping the Separate Records without any unnecessary delay after the Record Date. As regards Unit-holders for whom the entity keeping the Separate Records also keeps the accounts of Unit-holders, the entity keeping the Separate Records will credit the appropriate amount of the dividend to the bank account of the Unit-holder. As regards entities keeping the Follow-up Records related to the Separate Records, the entity keeping the Separate Records will credit the funds to the bank account of the entity keeping the Follow-up Records. The entity keeping the Follow-up Records shall be then responsible for the due payment of the dividend to the individual Unit-holders without any undue delay.
- 11.1.7 Titles for the payment of dividends, which the Unit-holders fail to claim or which could not be paid due to invalid or erroneous bank details of the Unit-holder within five years of the decision of the Board of Directors of the Investment Company about the payment of dividends, shall lapse and the relevant amount shall increase the assets of the Fund commencing on the first day after the expiration of the five-year term.

- 11.1.8 The assets and liabilities of the Fund shall be assessed at fair value. The method of determination of the fair value of the assets and liabilities of the Fund and the method of determination of the current value of the Units shall be governed by the applicable legislation, in particular, Sections 190 to 202 Management Companies and Investment Funds Act.
- 11.1.9 The assets and liabilities of the Fund shall be valued as of the date of determination of the current value of the Unit and as of the end of the financial year or, as the case may be, as of the date of the extraordinary financial statements.
- 11.1.10 The first determination of the current value of the Units shall be made on and as of the date pursuant to the Notification of Commencement of Offering, then the current value of the Units shall be determined usually for each Business Day.
- 11.1.11 The current value of the Units of all Classes of the Fund shall be determined usually for each Business Day, on the following Business Day, but at least once in two weeks, or for every day when the Units were issued and redeemed. The current values of the Units are published in a manner allowing for remote access on the Internet address: www.rfis.cz. In justified cases, the Investment Company may determine the current value of the Units valid for several days.
- 11.1.12 The current value of the Units of all Classes of the Fund shall be calculated with precision to 6 decimal places with subsequent arithmetic rounding to 4 decimal places.
- 11.1.13 The Fund accounting is kept in a manner allowing for the determination of the real value of the Units of the individual Classes of the Fund. The balances on the individual accounts and the individual accounting documents are distributed among the individual Classes using an allocation key. The allocation key is determined from a ratio of the fund assets belonging to the individual Classes of the Fund to the total assets of the Fund for the previous day of determination of the current value of the Units of the Fund. The allocation ratio is determined with accuracy to eight decimal points. If the sum of the ratios belonging to the individual Classes of the Fund in the allocation key is less than 1, it will be increased by the rounding difference and allocated to the Class of the Fund, which has the highest date of determination of the current value of the Units.
- 11.1.14 The current value of the Class of the Units will be determined as a ratio of the assets of the Fund belonging to the Class and the number of the Units of such Class. The determination of the current value of the Units will be based on the assets of the Fund belonging to the given Class of the Units as of the date in respect of which the determination of the current value of the Units has been performed. The Fund assets will take into consideration any accrued or deferred current expenses, in particular, fees listed in the Prospectus, for example, management fees, administration fees, depositary fees, fees for auditors, and any expected tax duties, as of the date in respect of which the Fund assets determination is performed. The assets of the Fund belonging to a Class is determined as a sum of the values of the assets of the Fund belonging to the Class, retained economic results [profit/loss] belonging to the Class, and the economic results of the current year after tax belonging to the Class.
- 11.1.15 The individual accounting items of the economic result [profit/loss] accounts will be distributed among the Classes with help of the allocation key, which corresponds to the quotient of the cumulative sums of the balances of the individual above-described accounting items(capital funds, retained economic results [profit/loss], economic results of the current year after tax) by the Classes.
- 11.1.16 In keeping with Section 5(3) of the Management Companies and Investment Funds Act, the provisions of Sections 1401, 1415(1) and 1432 to 1437 of Act no. 89/2012 Coll., the Civic Code, shall not apply to the management of the Fund.
